Most bandages just don't know when to let go.

Ordinary bandages can hurt your sensitive skin. So we created the first bandage gentle enough for sensitive skin.

It has a unique micro-dot adhesive, so it sticks as long as it needs to, then comes off without nearly the "ouch" of an ordinary bandage. You'd expect that from the maker of the

FDR's Friend

If Margaret Suckley is known at all, it's as the friend who gave Franklin D. Roosevelt his little Scottie dog, Fala, perhaps the most beloved of all Presidential pooches. But this New York neighbor and distant cousin of FDR played a central role in the President's life, offering him support and companionship for many years, apparently without sexual involvement. Geoffrey C. Ward tells her remarkable story in Closest Companion: The Unknown

Story of the Intimate Friendship Between Franklin Roosevelt and Margaret Suckley (Houghton Mifflin, $24.95).

Franklin and "Daisy," as Miss Suckley was known, spent hours together and wrote to each other (he signed his letters "Aff F"). She often stayed at the White House and was in the room at Warm Springs, Ga., when FDR died in 1945. Ward writes with sympathy and balance, giving a warm, relaxed picture of the President

She gave him Fala—and friendship.

In 1916, the Model T Ford made history all over again—this time as a customized fire engine. Now, the legend returns, as the Fireman's Hall Museum presents a spectacular die-cast model of this fire-fighting classic. It's the definitive model, authorized by Ford Motor Company.
